2025. Is no ordinary year. It is a cosmic turning point, a transition packed with astrological shifts that will dip our toes forward, take them out again, so that we can test the waters and redefine how we lead, connect and create. If you're ready to harness these energies and your work and leadership for more impact and more ease. This episode is for you. Welcome to store powered astrology for change makers. I'm Leslie Tagorda, your guide, a Hawaii born Filipino, Jewish astrologer who loves navigating visionaries like you through the spiritual journey of your work so that you can be inspired to lead by your chart and become the luminary leader you were born to be welcome luminaries. In our last episode of 2024 I'm going to be sharing a replay of my live master class that I had earlier this week that dives deep into the astrological energies that will shape 2025 it is such a transitional year, arriving in 2026 in this episode, you're going to get an overview of the cosmic overstory. We're going to explore five major planetary ingresses that's planets moving into new signs that will define the year, define the next three years, six years and beyond, and discover six key trends in leadership and business that will help you stay ahead of the curve, whether you're a solo entrepreneur, an activist, a community organizer, these insights are going to help you align your work with the cosmic flow so that you can lead with purpose and make a bigger impact. So please enjoy this episode, and thank you again for joining me and discovering astrology with me in 2024 let's dive in. Well, thank you again for joining me today and deciding to spend the next 60 to maybe 90 minutes together. I'll do my best to manage our time. And this is quite the year that we are approaching 2025 in the stars. I am calling this compassionate courage, reimagining a new path, because, as we're going to see, 2025 is such a transitional year where we fully arrive in 2026 and so we have a lot of back and forths when we kind of put everything into context. We're always going to refer back to 2020 because 2020 was such a pivotal year. You know, astrologers have been looking at it for like decades, and we're like, what is going on? And ever since 2020 we've been kind of in this ripple impact that is leading us to 2026 at least. That's how I see it. And you might know me because I am an astrologer that really loves focusing on leadership and change business and entrepreneurship. And so as we look at what's happening in the stars in 2025 I'm going to bring this lens of how can we all show up as leaders. I'm not just talking about CEOs, I'm not just talking about community activists, but I'm talking about, how can we individually know what we are here to do, who we are, what our strengths are, and contribute that back into the world, to make this world a just place, especially coming up when there's so many opposing forces. How are we going to contribute? How are we going to cross the line? How are we going to create unity. So today, what I want to chat about is we're going to look at 2020, 25 and the overview. And I'm I love putting charts together and visualizing data. So Jeff and I put together a little timeline that we'll briefly go over. And I want to talk about the cosmic overstory. If you've been to my presentations before, I haven't ever talked about the astrology in this way before, so I hope that you'll get a lot out of this cosmic overstory, because this is the positions from of the outer planets and where they are here and now in their aspects that are either helping support us or challenge us to make change, or telling us we got this. So we're going to be looking at that cosmic overstory, just to kind of orient ourselves and, you know, put our finger to the wind and see which way the wind is blowing in 2025 then we'll dive in a little bit deeper to the five astrological shifts that are happening this year. This year is not full of meetups or squares or trines, although there are those things that happen. But what's super prominent of this year is outer planets changing signs and meeting up in signs sometimes that we haven't seen since, like the 1940s and. Just kind of the impacts that we're going to have. But I don't want to leave it all doom and gloom. So we're going to look at how individually we can harness this energy and use this in our lives over, you know, the decades that are are coming up, and then this is totally new. I want to talk about, like, pragmatic ways and trends that we are that I'm seeing from these stars in leadership and business, so that you can begin to position your work and for 2025 to be ahead of the curve, to be to be able to catch that wave as it's coming forth, and to really be able to serve people in the way that they need to be served in 2025 and beyond. Let's go forward. If you've followed me before, you probably have seen this kind of timeline before, where we're looking at some of the Retrogrades and how they're divvied up in the year. Across the top, you can see that we have, you know, all of our our solstices and our equinoxes, marking the passage of the quarters of time. We have three Mercury Retrogrades this year, mostly in fire, some fought back from fire to water. We start the year we're currently in a Mars Retrograde. So we start the year with the Mars Retrograde, and then we have a Venus retrograde, coinciding with a Mercury retrograde. And so this year we get all three inner planets going in retrograde. And so I'm really excited to kind of feel into what Mars and Venus will feel like. So just know that as we come into the Aries Ingress, the beginning of the astrological new year, March is going to be a really busy year. We're going to be going through a lot of internal shifts with these Retrogrades. But then we also have our eclipse season. So our Eclipse Season asking us to take those quantum leaps. And so the eclipses this year are a little bit different, because we have our final Aries Eclipse. We won't have another Aries Eclipse for quite some time. The lunar nodes will be moving into Pisces and Virgo, so just like earlier this year, we have our first Pisces Eclipse. Now we're moving into these Pisces Virgo Eclipse seasons, and so I'm going to be talking a little bit about those Eclipse seasons and what that has to do with those nodes, um, regular Retrogrades. But this is where I want you to kind of pay attention. At this bottom row I have all of our outer planet ingresses. Neptune enters Aries, but Neptune, Neptune re enters Pisces, oops, Pisces, Pisces, so Aries, Pisces, and then Neptune finally arrives in Aries, once and for all, in 2026 so this kind of foreshadowing, this taste that we have for a few months of Neptune, Aries, I want us to talk about that. We're going to dive deep into that. So I want you to just kind of prepare yourself. What does that mean when a planet just like Pluto has been like over the last few years, going back and forth between Capricorn and aquarius? What that means for us now we have Neptune going back and forth between Pisces and Aries. Same with Saturn. Saturn dives into Aries, or flies into Aries, rather, jumps into Aries. And then we also have Uranus, you're honest. Is leaving Taurus finally. Thank you, Luna. Uranus is leaving Taurus, moving into Gemini, but just dipping his toes and then coming back to Taurus. Now all of these planets will fully arrive in Aries and Gemini in 2026 and so 2025 I'm already looking at 2026 and you'll hear me talk a lot about 2026 because this is why, one of the reasons I chose that that theme, like reimagining a new path, is because we're in such transition, we don't know what the path or we know what the path is going to look like in 2026 so to say. But this year, we're going to be going back and forth and back and forth, the cosmic over story I love Malcolm Gladwell. Has anybody read his most recent book, Revenge of the tipping point? Malcolm Gladwell is an author, and he writes a lot for the New York Times. He's written some books like The Tipping Point and what the Dog Saw. He wrote so many good books, but for the 25th anniversary of the tipping point. He was going to just kind of revise a few points, but he decided to rewrite the entire thing, and then created these stories and then framed it of like, why do we get these pockets of like social epidemics where these ideas catch fire in these small, little. Pockets, and he calls this the overstory. And so overstory is a lot a term used from botany, where it describes the canopy in a forest, where you know whether the canopy is thick and not letting light through, or the different kind of animals and plants that live in, in the canopy, and how it influences everybody in that area. Well, I wanted to look at this year's cosmic overstory, meaning, where are the outer planets positioned, and how are they aspecting each other? Because when I think of an aspect like, Uranus trying Pluto an aspect, like a Trine or a conjunction or a square, is simply the quality of relationship. So if Uranus is here to revolutionize and Pluto is here to break through and Pluto is here to break down, well break through and break down. It's in trying. So we should be easily churning through things that we need to break down. Those boxes, get rid of the compost, declutter, right? Because ultimately, Uranus and Pluto, we need to let things go so that we can rise up and so when we see a Trine like this. Thank goodness, these two energies are working together to support us. Now, another big over story that we're going to dive into much more is this conjunction between Saturn and Neptune. Now Saturn and Neptune have a really weird side note. So how you pronounce it? The side note is basically the rhythm in which they meet, and Pluto, Pluto, where's my notes? Saturn and Neptune, they meet every 36 years. I was thinking Saturn, Neptune and Uranus. I'll more on that soon. But Saturn and Neptune, they have been in the same sign in Pisces for the last three years, and they are both moving towards Aries, and are going to be in the sign of Aries for another three years. So in all aspects, Saturn and Neptune coming together. Saturn, the process of mastery, turning doubt into mastery Neptune, like dissolving and resolving or coming together. And so when we think about Saturn in in mastery of compassion in Pisces now Saturn, the mastery of self actualization conjunct Neptune, I'm going to talk much deeper into that, but you can see that they are going to be in orb conjunct, blended together for the next year, from April to April. And so there's a lot of things that are dissolving, systems that are dissolving, like you think about, like the Berlin Wall, like, how Saturnian is that a border that is crumbling down, and who crumbled it down, the people. And so I think this is really, really interesting. But on top of that, so Saturn conjunct Neptune for 12 months from April 2025 to April 2026 they will not meet exactly until February of 2026, and guess where they're meeting on the world axes, zero degrees of Aries. Now, if we just take that kind of theme that Susanna suggested about, you know, the Berlin Wall, what kind of borders will be dissolving at this time on the world axes? Right for me, I have this utopian dream of, like, Star Trek, where, like, you know, the earth becomes itself, and Stacey Abrams is the president of Earth. I don't know if you saw this episode, but that's my utopian dream. I'm gonna hold it now. Jupiter will be squaring both Saturn and Neptune conjunction in the early summer. So this little blip here Jupiter with that square, again, that type of relationship Jupiter is like, let's expand. But you know what? This expansion is going to be like, a catalyst. It's not going to be super, super, super comfortable. And so we will be having in in early, mid summer challenges, but not bad challenges. I always see Jupiter as growth opportunities. Maybe these are not growth opportunities that we asked for, but these are definitely growth opportunities that we need. Now coming back to something that is not on this chart, um, I and now I'm thinking, I. You to update this chart and add this is this idea of Neptune in Aries, right? Remember, Neptune is moving into Aries at the beginning of the year, and Uranus in Gemini now Aries, Gemini, the sextiles. I don't have these sextiles shown in here, but just thinking about Neptune and Uranus only meet every 170 years, and they're going to be in a sign sextile. The last time they met was also in Capricorn a few years after that, 1989 but starting this year, they're both going to be in the same signs that they were during the American Revolution, where they coincided for four years, between 1862 and 1866 only four years during the American Revolution. So many themes in the American Revolution that we're going to be covering further on. So I won't get stuck there, but at this time in our current modern world, they will be in the same sign in 2025 for five months, and then again for from 2026 until 2033 until Uranus leaves Gemini. So imagine the change in the transformation that you know, the American Revolution was one thing, but like across the world, there were a lot of different revolutions going on there, and that was only four years. And this time we have eight years of this. And why does this matter? Because we are going to see disruptions and innovations, the expansive, rapid expansion of communications technology, like we're already seeing this AI machine learning. We're going to see collective change, just like the movements from the American Civil War, just the tensions being between progress and old systems, we are already feeling this. We're feeling that push and pull between, you know, the right, growing power the left, pushing back. What's going to happen? I think we're going to have to find unity and cross party lines, figure out how we can work together. We're going to be having more of pioneering spirits. So maybe there's going to be more exploration in in our world, space exploration, ocean effort, exploration. Aries is bold, energy and Neptune. With Neptune and Gemini is agile, like fast fueled breakthroughs in science and social structures. So how is this going to work? I do hope that with Neptune and Aries, we're going to inspire bold, compassionate visions, while Uranus and Gemini will accept accelerate technical revolutions like AI and decentralized communication. Okay? I think decentralized communication is going to become a really big theme, decentralized and secure communications, especially when people are not trusting the big social media companies anymore. Okay, so for all of this radical breakthrough in how we connect and communicate, and I'm going to dive into that a little bit deeper. So I want you to see this kind of the these as cosmic currents that we are all riding this year, so we are ripe for getting rid of all the things that we no longer need so that we can break through. We are ripe for self actualization with compassion because of the Saturn and Neptune and then Jupiter just, you know, encouraging us along, saying this isn't what you want, but this is what you need. Okay over story. So let's dive in a little bit deeper and talk about the five big ingresses, specifically ingresses, these astrological alignments, planets or energies, moving into new zodiacs, new archetypal energies for us, entrepreneurs, change makers and leaders. Now the first one that I want to talk about, of course, is the lunar nodes. Are the lunar nodes changing their axes into Pisces and Virgo north node in Pisces, meaning this is where, you know the lunar nodes are simply calculations where the moon's orbit intersects with the elliptic on Earth. So that kind of the sun's path as presented on Earth. And so these lunar nodes represent, at least in Western astrology, the north node represents our collective stretch. Potential what we need to consciously and mindfully choose, and the south node is what we need to like, not get stuck in so Pisces, energy, moving into conscientiousness, compassion, empathy, dissolving boundaries, surrendering spiritual well being, flow. Compassion, again. Compassion, empathy, right? Saturn already set our way with Saturn doing, you know, setting paving the way, like literally paving the way with those big, heavy rollers, flattening and creating those demarcations for the road, for the for the nodes to come through and Virgo, the energy that we're moving away from, we're moving away from perfectionism, from pathologizing. Has anybody read David bedrick's recent new book The unshaming way? I highly recommend this book, and he's going to be coming into the podcast in March, but he really talks about like how all the things that we shame ourselves for not being good enough or smart enough or pretty enough, and how he's comes from social constructs, and how we have our own body intelligence to tell us what we need. Okay, we don't need to pathologize what's wrong with ourselves? We don't need to diagnose and compartmentalize every little bit of piece to like a not like analyze it to death. We don't need to overwork and be overly health conscious. We know how to do those things. We can fall back on it. So how can we make our lives much more easier, and really focus on that compassion. And so these nodes are moving into these Pisces and Virgo, and I'm really hopeful over the next, you know, 19 months, as these nodes move into Pisces and Virgo, because this is giving us that compassion and empathy, this is how we are going to connect with people who look different than us, act different like us, vote differently than us, because we're going to have to find a way to come together. Okay, so over the next 19 months, you're being asked to stretch into compassion and move past criticism. How will you move beyond judgment to let compassion lead the way? Courageous compassion. Remember now the last time, the last time that the lunar nodes were in Pisces and Virgo, we had Al Gore as An Inconvenient Truth, educating the public about the dangers of climate change and how we it's all of our responsibility to take care of our planet Earth. Al Gore won the Nobel Peace Prize. That's so Piscean the launch of Twitter. Can you believe now we have this next lunar notes coming back into Pisces. Now we have the demise, the dissolution of Twitter. Now it's x but you know, Twitter really created, at the time, a way of of disseminating information, that where everybody was a thought leader. And it's super interesting with Jack Dorsey, when you look at his astrology, he has that Gemini in the midheaven, on the midheaven like, of course, he created Twitter, um, the popularization of yoga in the West. Of course, yoga existed in the West previous to 22,006 but at this time, you know, I live in San Francisco, and there was, just like, so many yoga studios, not too many anymore. Yeah, Karen, now blue sky is growing absolutely so there's going to be new ways of communicating in this year that we'll see. Now, remember the lunar nodes change change every 19.5 years come, or it doesn't change. They come back every 19 and a half years with the calculated points. The last time was in 26 2006 and 2007 now this is one part that I love doing, in terms of looking at how individually we can use this energy, because it's great to know the history, it's great to know the over story, but like, what about you? What about me? How are we going to do this? And so I want us to be able to reframe what it means to understand instead of criticize, right? We're going about a certain day, like, you know, like all the mistakes that and the typos that we have, I could criticize myself. I could, like, you know, get on Jeff really hard. Why didn't you notice that Jeff, you know, like we are own worst critics already, like, I don't need to do that. Oh, more fireworks. I. Um, but understanding, what can I learn from this moment? Ah, if I had more time, if I had more resources, we could maybe do a better job. Yes, maybe next year, and like after we can, you know, hire an editor or something, dismantle perfection? What did I feel to complete? I mean, I don't know if you're like me, but I just have an ever lasting list of things that I'm never going to be able to get to. I could guilt myself for not finishing, and I do, but I'm doing my best to start to notice, like, what have I accomplished? What kind of progress have I made. So I encourage that for you too, to focus on the progress, not on the failure. Now, in classic Virgo, productivity is all about efficiency effectiveness, but the cost of productivity is burnout. And guess what? That's not effective. So how can we start seeing that our reflection? How can we start seeing that our rest, our play, our joy, is part of our productivity, part of our part of our effectiveness, shaming and vulnerability next time I think I might want to bold this because David bedrick's book, again, I'll be referencing this so much because it made such a difference in the way that I think about myself, the way that I think about my partner, the way that I approach my clients when working through places that we've been stuck, right? I'm so stupid I keep on doing this. What is wrong with me? We are moving away from that. We are moving towards vulnerability. It's okay to make mistakes, it's okay to be messy, it's okay to show up exactly who we are, strengths, weaknesses, the whole shebang, we're moving away from controlling every detail and moving into trusting the process. Okay, so Neptune enters Aries for now. I'm calling this forge your compassion. So you know, for the next 13 years, I can't do the math right now, 16 years, however many years. Ooh, Savina, that's when you got to live in Paris. Maybe you'll be taking another adventure. But Neptune in Aries, the Neptune process, of course, is to transcend, to dissolve, to unify, to see that we are all interconnected. We are all Merced, immersed, just like when we're making our smoothies, or like our butternut squash soup, something that's just like turning out so much beautiful when everything is blended. Neptune also has the ability, that magical ability that storytellers and movie makers and photographers can do that takes us out of our current reality and puts us somewhere else temporarily, so that we can fantasize and Aries energy getting started knowing yourself, being your best self, being an advocate, being competitive without hypercompetitivity. We're not talking about like hyper individualization, but we're talking about you being bold, you knowing that you are here to lead. Okay, so what's going to happen? Well, I want you to think about what fires are reshaping your compassion into strength? What fires, all the fires that we have put out, we don't have to shame ourselves for the why the fire started. We can celebrate ourselves because we are putting them out, and we're seeing what is being forged, what is being galvanized. Because when we add fire, it strengthens what fires are forging and reshaping your compassion into strength, because compassion is a strength, compassion for yourself, compassion for others, compassion for your enemies, takes so much courage now. The last time Neptune was in Aries again, we had this American Civil War. Very exciting. There's a lot of astrologers that are predicting another American Civil War we might already be in it, right? Is California going to secede? Is Texas going to secede? Are we going to have these different, different factions? I don't know. Time will tell. Things are going to change, though, maybe. Will they be challenging, maybe. But there, here are the things that we do have control over. You. We can let go of dominance and move into devotion. Now, one of the reasons, and this is like a big theme of my upcoming book in 2026 is how to lead with your stars, and why so many of us don't see us as leaders, ourselves as leaders. A lot of us resist leader and leadership positions because we see on TV and society all of the most powerful leaders at leading with dominance and fear. We don't need that.

We need leaders that show up fully to inspire others, that are devotional, that are of service to the people we're moving away from, the fear of vulnerability, that sensitivity is weak. I won't even say the orange Cheetos name, but you know, I feel for the guy sometimes, just in the in the way that he was brought up from he learned this sensitivity is weak. He learned this so much that he can't even say that he lost or or suffered a defeat in the past because of fear of his father. That's what he was taught. No wonder he acts the way he does his his chart is full of like potent things that he could have used for so much good. Maybe some people say he's doing things that would not in my world. Instead, we're moving into strength and compassion. Compassion is my greatest strength. I show up with my open heart. This is something that I've been really, really wanting to flex my muscle innately is showing up in vulnerability and compassion, conflict. I'll fight what's wrong. What about creation? I'll focus on creating what's possible. Again, crossing the lines, working together, focusing on the progress that we're going to make, instead of fighting what we don't have, self centeredness, definitely moving away from that and moving into self actualization, my growth and leadership are not only for me. When I grow, when I lead, that ripples forth, inspires other, it makes impact. So you being your very best self, doing the thing that you were born to do in self actualization, knowing yourself and acting on that is inspires others. It's so amazing. Moving away from aggression, let's burn the whole thing down. The whole world will be burned down if we do this. Into advocacy, how can I channel my fire into speaking up for those who need it, isolation for all of us, reading our self help books by ourselves, reading astrology books to like know who we are by ourselves, trying to figure out what's wrong with us. Healing does not happen in isolation. When you're separate, healing needs to be witnessed in unity, doing this with others on your on the same path. Okay, let's move on Saturn also in Aries. So Saturn and Aries and both Neptune and Aries. So Neptune in Aries was about forging what forger compassion and now we have Saturn crystallizing your courage. They're this, they're they're very similar, but their process is totally different, because Saturn's process is to mature and define and achieve and master focus. That's why I call it crystallized. Because, like the process of of creating a crystal, takes a lot of pressure, a lot of boundaries, a lot of and you get these sharp points. I don't know if you can see my little crystal, my favorite crystal, but you have so much clarity because you've prioritized things. And so how do you want to define, strengthen and utilize your courage to self actualize, because you know what, knowing yourself and becoming your best self, it's scary. I've talked to many, many, many clients over the course of many, many, many years, no judgment, myself included. I'm still not organized. I'm still wait till last minute to do everything, but right I'm still stuck there. That's okay, and for those of us that are still stuck, instead of becoming our best self and our best actualization, maybe what kind of courage do we need to look at what we need? Maybe we don't need what we've been trying to chase. Maybe we need something else that we've been too afraid to go after. Maybe we're chasing the things that we should be doing instead of like being courageous and telling our parents, no, I don't want to become a doctor. I want to become an actor that takes courage. Okay? Okay, and so with Saturn in Aries over the next three, two and a half, three years, I want you to really know who you are and what you need, to become your very best self, to define yourself, to write your own stories. Saturn is the ruler of authorship. Authority also, but authority is the author of your own story. Now, previously, you know Saturn every 29 years. So maybe you're going through your Saturn Return, maybe you're going through your second Saturn Return. Maybe you're going through your midlife Saturn opposition. I think all of us can feel some kind of Saturnian pull. The last time the rise of individual expression on the internet began, I, you know, I was part of the first.com that's when I first moved to San Francisco. And I remember being on modems and being, you know, dialing up and, like, talking online, and, you know, getting my AOL messenger and talking to people all over the world and really defining who I was. That was fun back in, like, the late 60s counterculture, and, you know, World War Two, we don't really think about just all of the progress that it was made in individualization. Like people were still, you know, kind of homogeneous, but women were coming out into the workforce. There was much more individual contributions. And so really finding that courage to be ourselves. And so let that be the model of what we want to do this time around. So we're stopping seeking approval from from others. We don't need others to validate with us. I trust my own decisions, my courage comes from within other, not others, opinions, avoidance. This is too hard. I'm going to deal with it later. This is classic me. This is the one that, like really speaks to me most. I need to confront my challenges, not kick it down the line. I have the courage to face this now, to send that email, now, to look at my bank statement. Now, every every step I take brings me closer to a resolution fear of failure. What if I fail? I'm not ready to take responsibility, focus mastery. Every challenge I accept sharpens my skills and brings me closer I will learn and grow from this overextending without boundaries. Instead of saying no helps you fully show up for what truly matters. Evading. I don't want to take the blame if things don't, if things go wrong, so I'm just not going to do it. That is not a leadership move. Integrity is taking responsibility. I stand by my actions, and even if it doesn't turn out the way that I intended it to turn out, I will learn and take responsibility. And then, of course, Saturn turns self doubt into mastery. Now this is much more specific, because this is also one of the ones that I next time I'm going to bold honoring lived experiences, because Saturn, oftentimes is putting other people on a pedestal, is giving power to people that we think are above us. And in fact, Saturn is here to show us, show you, show me that my lived experience is valuable. I am the expert in my own life, and I've I lead from what I've lived, learned and mastered. That's why, if you're working in kind of, like the nonprofit field, or like the service fields where you know you're trying to help a group of like marginalized people, you gotta talk to those people in terms of what they need and not tell them what they should should need, because that's not honoring their lived experience and their expertise in their own life. Okay? And this goes for you too. You are the expert. Okay, let's move on. So Jupiter enters cancer. So Jupiter, Moose quickly spends about a year in each sign. And Jupiter has been in the sign of Gemini, which is considered its fault or its detriment, because it's across from its home sign of Sagittarius. Now it's moving into nurturing, supportive cancer and so yes, Susanna, thank you, Jupiter and cancer. We need his loving energy with all of the Yang, air and fire, yes, we have a little water to quench and nourish ourselves to nurture. Your growth. If you've ever heard me talk about the fourth house, 10th house, aspects with fourth house being traditionally ruled by cancer, we have to root. We have to root into the earth. We have to nurture ourselves in the depths of the soil in order to rise. And so this Jupiter in Cancer, nurture to growth. The question that I want you to reflect on is, how can you nurture emotional safety, to grow your capacity to feel lead and connect heart to heart? Okay, you don't need more strategies. You don't need more like how tos and negotiations about connecting. Connecting comes from an emotional level. When you can understand what somebody is saying, when somebody can understand what you are feeling. This is what it means to connect. When we connect, we trust, when we trust, we can do things together. So of course, Jupiter's process to grow to vision, to believe, to expand, to add meaning, all of the beautiful silver linings and learning lessons and with cancer, emotional intelligence, emotional safety, softness, nourishment, protection, reclaiming, ancestral wisdom, family, home, culture, the gifts as well as the pains yes and Susanna JUPITER is exalted in cancer, all the support of feminine leadership in that water, cardinal sign, Luna says, The healing balm of cancer, feeling, our feelings being embodied with supportive with all of the Aries, ingresses, yes, all this Cardinal energy. And so as Jupiter is in cancer, this is absolutely our time to nurture and expand our emotional capacity to be able to connect vulnerably with emotions, heart to heart. That takes a ton of courage. Okay, now Jupiter moves quickly. So the last time, 2013 to 2014 before that, 2001 to 2002 before that, 89 to 90 before that, 77 to 78 maybe you might be celebrating a Jupiter return. But in the 70s. In the late 70s, 77 to 78 the term inner child work emerged in 89 and 90. We were talking earlier about the Berlin Wall. Like there's so many like correlations that are coming through. You know, unifying a people, the German people, September 11 happened in 2001 a domestic attack really brought into the four of like of nationalism and what it Meant to be at home, the collective shift towards home and emotional safety and prioritizing community like communities prioritizing safety and security and resilience, maybe we went a little overboard there. Um In 20 in 2001 in 2002 like we started to see online DNA testing kits where we started to learn about our ancestry and learn about so many different things that's kind of starting to fall apart now because of security reasons. 2013 and 2014 we saw the rise of mindfulness and emotional well being, especially in the technology sector. Like I don't know if anybody ever used head headspace app. And 2014 in Nigeria, kind of the big moment a global outcry to protect and nurture kidnapped Nigerian school girls, which emphasize collective responsibility for safety. And so we can see the double edged sword here with Jupiter and cancer, there's this idea of safety and security, but sometimes we go too far. Okay, so we'll talk about this in kind of the the reframing section. So, so we're dismantling all these things, suppressing our feelings, being cut off and not feeling connected to our heritage. I mentioned this one a lot. This is, you know, being of Filipino and Jewish ancestry, I have a lot of shame, or I had a lot of shame around being Filipino. I'm being Jewish. And so for a long time, I I just dismissed all of that part of myself, and I later learned that was called colonial mentality. And once I started to learn about that shame and started to deconstruct that shame, I started to feel more pride about my heritage and all of the wonderful things that come from both my Jewish and my Filipino heritages, and so maybe you feel that cut off from your roots somehow, whether this was due to immigration or whatever it might have been due to how can you reclaim and foster those foster your roots and cultural ties, forcing change versus softening into growth. I know I've used to always push, push, push, push, and try to make things fast and be like, super impulsive, and this is really a detriment, instead of going at our own pace, because a lot of times, especially like when we're working with astrology, when I'm working with my clients, understanding our moon, understanding our needs, understanding our emotional needs, and what we need from our business, allows us to soft. It because we can be soft. This is when things grow. If we're always trying to force things, we start to like block and hold ourselves back and put up walls. So we need to soften into growing. Now this comes back to what I was talking about earlier, about the exclusion, as Sky says, the idea of our safety to the exclusion of safety of others. So for all of us who are working in different industries that are looking about like, you know, human connection, or, I don't know if Karen Fleshman is still on this call, but I'm just thinking about you with your business, racy conversations and interracial sisterhood. In terms of like, how do we bring people together? By Luna, you're so welcome. In terms of like, not othering others, not treating other people as fundamentally different, seeing that we are more alike, and creating collective belonging, because when we have this collective belonging, that actually makes it much more safe for all of us when we're separated into, like, our little, you know, gated communities, that doesn't make things safer for all of us over sharing in terms of like, eliciting sympathy or attention, that is Like vulnerability hangover overload. That's not what we're doing here. But we are late. We're looking towards emotional safety and opening up and creating secure spaces to deepen trust and connection. Okay, we have a few more to wait. A few more to go. Allison, all of them, Martha. Martha, combo of dismantling emotional suppression with softening into growth. I feel that for you so deeply. So the last one that we'll be talking about is Uranus entering Gemini for now. And this is one that I'm super, super excited about. And I'm calling this the theme of shake up your circles. Your communities, the way that you talk to each other, the way that you communicate. Yeah, Susannah, I'm afraid of the backlash of machismo with this Aries energy. But isn't it a Venus here? You know, the only thing that we can do is do be our very best selves and have control over what we can control. And this allows us to keep our mind and our vision and our path, our eye on our path. And so, you know, we can easily get stuck into the fear of some of these aspects and these alignments of, you know, once every since like World War Two or the American Revolution, there are going to be conflicts, but this is going to be our call to not fight and not participate in the conflict, but seeing how we can work together with compassion. So Uranus, coming back to Uranus in Gemini, where do you need to innovate your connections, to challenge outdated systems, share your bold ideas and forge meaningful alliances? I'm using the word forge a lot because of Aries and just the, you know, just the metal and the fire and everything, and so when we're thinking about these shaking up our circles, remember Gemma. Gemini is a social sign. It's about cross pollinating. It's about sharing ideas so that new ideas can evolve. It's about being. Curious and working within your neighborhoods. Now, yes, Gemini is about your you know, who are the people in your neighborhood, like your close travel, but our neighborhoods are global. Now, it's really about finding your like minded people from all over the world, being social, being curious and Uranus to awaken. So this is going to be, I think this is going to be, I'm, I'm looking forward to this. Serena says, going over my north node, two degrees. Gemini, yes, stretching into your soul potential. Okay, so Uranus takes 84 years to travel around the sun. Spends seven, about seven years in each sign. So we get to look forward to this next seven years, the last time, last time Uranus was in Gemini, we had global upheavals, technological breakthroughs and revolutionary shifts in communication and community structures. Hmm. So, of course, in the last time there might be, you know, some people might have parents or grandparents or great grandparents that are still alive that can remember World War Two. Maybe not, but World War Two, there were so many advances in the war machines and weapons and technology, but even just how we communicated and TV, the lot and then American Civil War, which keeps on coming back, had the invention of the telegraph revolution, where there was instant communication between the North North America and Europe. That had never happened before. It made the world smaller. And then also in the Civil War, we had the abolition of oppressive systems. We could do it some more. Social justice is not is not complete yet. But you know, we abolished slavery during the Civil War. Florence Nightingale was a nurse at the time, and she in, she innovated in, in the Crimean War, she innovated and systemized a better way of nursing that focused on sanitation and structured care. Yes. So So Poland still recovers. So many, so many of us are still recovering. It's so hard all of the remnants that are now coming back, and we're coming back to Florence, Nightingale. She reshaped how societies viewed caregiving and community health. And then also at the same time in the 18 the mid 1800s the rise of mass literacy and publishing. Printing technology was able to mass produce newspapers, books, educational materials, and more and more people were able to have literacy and able to share ideas and engage in public discourse. And so imagine what's going to happen now with Uranus in Gemini. What are some of the themes that you can imagine us expanding into on this spiral journey? So for all of us, it's time to update your communities. Are you in communities with people who don't share your same values or your same vision? Okay? Find your online communities offline communities. It's time for meaningful cross pollination. Share your ideas. Nobody will steal them, because they are the way that you do them. Nobody can do them like you. Disrupt leadership. You showing up as a leader. Me, showing up as a leader is truly a disruption in leadership. Innovation takes courage. How can you shake up your circles by maybe presenting new ideas and approaches outreach? Do the invitations you can step out of your isolation with compassion and courage, create new connections and opportunities, revolutionize your voice. Do not stay silent. Your voice, your message, is here to awaken new perspectives. As sharing your truth, your perspective, inspires others to step into theirs and, of course, up leveling communication, maybe we will go back to the way of the carrier pigeon, because at least that is secure unless somebody stills your pigeon. But thinking of different ways to communicate, especially as you know, the big places like meta and Twitter and things like that are no longer safe spaces. And so how will we communicate? Okay, my friends, that was long. I know we're at the hour, but I'm going to continue on because but before I continue on, I just wanted to understand what's your most exciting thing? What are you looking forward to most about Uranus in Gemini? Now, I know that Uranus transits can feel very disconcerting, because there's so much restless energy. You can imagine just your electrical system just going like all all circuits are on board. And so how do you manage all of that energy? You know, I'm just thinking about personally, for me, my Gemini rising, which is at a later degree of Gemini. But you know, having Uranus cross through an angle is always very exciting. Tammy says dismantling, saying silent really speaks to you. Beautiful. Allison says awakening. My voice in aligned communities with meaningful, collaborative sharing. Beautiful. Susanna says internet edutainment. Armand and Didi say, revolutionizing your voice. Martha jury says, I have some reflection to do around my avoidance of community and connection being around energy conversion conservation. Once I take better care of my emotional safety and tend to my energy reserves, I'll have more room for connection with others. Yes, so beautiful Martha, to know yourself like that, and remember, you know, start small. Start with your small community. Start with one person, two people, three people. Get, you know, comfortable in small groups, and then you can expand later, but definitely always being witness and being in community, you're going to go so much further than being by being by yourself. Okay? So thank you everyone for sharing. And so I want to dive into this next section, because this is something that I'm changing up, that I haven't presented in this way before. And so if this is for you, if you have a business or you, I hope you have some kind of business or see yourself as a leader, because these are the trends that I see coming down the line. Now, again, I don't like to be predictive. I'm not saying like this is going to happen, because who knows what's going to happen, but I want to be prescriptive, meaning, hey, this is the energy that is available to us. What can we do? And so here are some suggestions how you can position yourself, position your business, position your work, to stay ahead of change and integrate these cosmic energies that are coming our way. So you can lead with bold, compassionate courage in 2025 so we're going to start with an overview, and then we're going to dive a little bit deeper into each one of these. Yay shell. Michelle says I was excited for this section. I would love to after we go through. I hope you can you. I would love to hear your thoughts about this. So I have six trends here, and we're going to dive into each one individually, but I just have them as a overview here. Collective leadership is one trend. AI expansion is another trend, differentiating yourself and your skills in the AI world, wellness and stewardship. I put them together home and caregiving and innovations in craftsmanship. So let's take a look. So I want to start off with collective leadership. So remember, we're talking about shake up your circles Uranus and Gemini, Jupiter and cancer, being with others is a fast track for anything, a fast track for emotional healing, a fast track for getting ideas to market, a fast track of getting your word and brand awareness out there. And so for all of this, yes, I shall. Collective leadership is fascinating with Pluto in your 11th house. Now, the industries that are going to really be impacted are community platforms, membership models, professional associations like unions and networks and advocacy groups. Now, I recently started joining a bunch of astrology associations. And I was really afraid to join these astrology associations, because I was like, Well, who am I as an astrologer? I know that sounds really ridiculous, but I had some massive self doubt, and all of a sudden, going into these different associations. I am seeing how people are really taking to this version of my version of astrology. And so at first I was really doubtful that I didn't have anything to offer, and this might be you too that prevents you from going to conferences or joining these different networking groups. But. But really, you know, find your way. Find your courage into joining these different professional associations. Not all your groups are going to be all your people, so it takes some testing. Know when to leave groups, but if they're not like your people, know when to join groups. Explore if you have a membership, if you have a community platform, you know, thinking about you Martha, who you know, like, you know, starting small for all of us. And so we're going to see the rise of larger scale communities and networks that challenge traditional leadership models, unions, cooperatives, collaborative business, ecosystems, industry, and especially in industries where workers are demanding equity and collective power. So technology, healthcare, creative industries. I was talking to a client right before this in terms of, like, women's empowerment and, you know, kind of our return back to, like the 90s, super thin, no curves, very young supermodels, right, where for a while we were going into more body inclusivity and more body positivity. That's kind of turning around. So where are all where are the rest of us going to go? And so we have to create those communities for people who might feel excluded from the social norms. And so if this is you, you know, start thinking about what kind of communities that you would would give. Oh, thank you, Susanna and so maybe you can build a membership platform, maybe you can partner with an advocacy group. Maybe you can find networks and associations and join them and explore new circles. Okay, so stay on top of this trend, especially to grow and build your visibility and your leadership as well as your business. Okay, Trend number two, AI expansion and human AI integration. Now this is only going to grow and AI while super, super, super helpful. You know, we use chat GPT a lot to ideate to reflect, you know, I feed a lot of my content into chat GPT to train it. But, you know, chat GPT is still going to be chat GPT. All these AI models are still going to be aI models, and they're going to get better and better and better. And so our job is to be more human. And what does it mean to be more human, to be able to be the thought leader, like training the AI to how you want it to work for you, by having your purpose, having your meaning, having your special perspective and not adopting the perspective of of AI, if I adopted everything that chatgpt gave me, everything would be embrace, this embrace that I hate the word embrace. Why does AI use that word embrace all the time? And so for you. How can you use AI in your work to do the like, the repetitive things, to do the summaries, to write a proposal to you know, to do follow ups, to create systems, to create marketing plans, all the, all the heavy work that takes you out of your creative zone of genius. And so I want you to really like focus on your creativity, your perspective, your compassion, and work with AI in that way. Allison says, As a woo editor, I try to bring all the soul human into AI copy. It's all about using AI as a tool. Absolutely I love, love that. And so as we as as AI, takes up more work, as it replaces people, even in like corporate in corporate situations, it's going to be really, really important for you to know who you are, to know how to talk about your differences, your superpowers, your strengths, to differentiate yourself in an AI driven world. Michelle says a popular prompt going around on Tiktok to tell us what we don't know but we need to know. And of the 10 major themes being shared by chatgpt users, half of them are major themes in your work. Yes, hopefully, hopefully, we'll take notice now that chat GPD said So absolutely, because you know what, AI is not going to be able to do unashaming and healing and compassion. AI is not going to be able to it. Knows a lot about astrology. Actually, you could probably ask chat GPT to, you know, read your astrology, or, like, tell you about aspects and what are the strengths from it. And that's a great tool, too. But how you then connect the dots to your lived experience? My friend, only you can do that, and so I know that you shall. Is a weaver. Or connect so many dots, and AI is going to be able to do some of it, but not all of it. And so for you to know yourself and create your own personal brand, or your business brand based on your values, based on your leadership and your lived experiences, all of us here in, like, the healing and the coaching, branding, marketing, we are going to really be able to need to differentiate ourselves so that we can connect to the hearts of our clients, versus, like, having our clients just go to AI to do all of the work for us to connect the dots. Yes, we're all going to connect the dots. And so how you can use this focus on your values based branding and storytelling? Right? You can ask chat G P T to help you write the story, but chat G P T can't tell you you know how you grew up, why you loved astrology, why you went into the work that you do Lean into your lived experience and your unique voice. Remember, this is going back to one of those. I think it was Saturn and Aries like your self actualization, your lived experience. That is, you okay, nobody can take that away. That is your expertise. Offer services that allow people to know themselves. No wonder there's such a rise in astrologers and people who are doing other kinds of coaching, and you know, having their astrology and their human design and their gene keys and their back pocket to do beautiful things, because these tools enable us to see the unseen and know us, know ourselves in ways that we can't just do it by holding up the mirror. So offer services for people to get to know themselves, but not only to get to know themselves, but that help them self actualize, because there is a gap between knowing what you're here to do and like knowing yourself and then actually doing the things that you want to do. Okay, so fill that gap with your work. Okay, for all of us healers, whether you're a emotional healer like a psychotherapist, or you're a physical here healer like an energy worker, or you're a spiritual worker like another energy worker, we all need healing, wellness, emotional intelligence. And the reason why I threw in and wrapped in environmental steward stewardship is because the health of our earth is directly proportional to the health of our bodies, ourselves, our families and our communities, if we are not taking care of our water, if we are not doing taking care of our resources, we are directly impacting our own personal health. So these are things that AI cannot do. Ai cannot heal. Ai cannot create wellness, there will be an increased demand for businesses to prioritize wellness, emotional intelligence and environmental sustainability. People are going to favor companies and organizations that care for their teams, communities and the planet. The planet and water and health and wellness is directly related to human health and wellness. So invest in your own emotion, emotional intelligence and wellness. Learn how to speak about your emotions and what your emotions are telling you. Commit to your wellness programs to prevent burnout, align products and services with sustainable and regenerative practices. Spend and invest only in other businesses that have sustainable practices or values that are aligned with you. Please do not buy bottled water unless it's absolutely necessary. I always say this, but I truly mean it and ensure that everybody that you know that and that you don't know has access to clean water. Water is not a commodity. Water is a gift for all. We all have the right to clean water. Businesses and corporations and governments will make us think that that it's not a gift, but it is truly a gift. Okay, okay. Two more. Why do I say not to buy bottled water? Because bottled water comes from corporations that are trying to profit. It's created out of plastic. There's so much plastic waste, and they're creating a false sense of urgency when access and to water rights should be available to all of us. Now you might live in a place where there is not access to clean water, and you might have to have to buy water, but you're better off with buying some kind of jug that you can do. Filtered water and then refilling your own filtered bottles instead of, like, just buying tons of plastic and yeah, corporations like Pepsi and Leslie are stealing groundwater from everywhere. It's terrible, terrible, terrible. Okay, I'll get off my soapbox. The um, the rise of home child and women sent women centered care. I mean, you can see the writing on the wall, at least, you know, the United States, with all of these elections and all of the going back on women's rights and health care, there is going to be such a need for women's health care, things that you know have, like Home Improvement and maintenance, things that are you know, enable people for to work from home. More child care and elder care solutions, more family centered tech more women centered leadership programs, anything that can promote the wellness and the success of women, children and non binary folks are going to be on the rise. So businesses will see opportunities in industries addressing the gaps in caregiving, flexible workspaces, family friendly systems and companies that support home life, home maintenance, Home Improvement, will lead as the workforce seeks to balance work and caregiving. Okay, if you have, you know, small children, maybe you have elderly parents, there's going to be a so much of a greater need for this. So anything that's helping in this arena. This is a very, very vast and wide but maybe you can, if you have a business, you can offer flexible work times. You can, maybe you can develop products or services that support home centered needs. Maybe you can invest in women centered leadership programs or create opportunities for mothers and caretakers in business, create opportunities for elders in the workplace. You know, there's so many, you know, Gen X, like early Gen X and late boomers, that are at retirement age but still have so much to contribute and offer, and that is a hugely untapped potential. How we can, you know, look to the mentorship of elders. We we should not be throwing away that wisdom. So think about how you might want to bring this to the fore in your leadership and business. Um, Okay, last one innovation in craftsman, material, craft, craftsmanship, materials and art. This is really focused on design, architecture, engineering, arts and crafts, as well as manufacturing. I do see, especially with Neptune and Saturn going through Aries, that there's going to be improvements in in materials science. So different types of alloys, different ways of creating different materials that are going to be stronger, more sustainable. Maybe can hold, you know, hold a power for the electrical grid a little bit better, but they're going to be more cutting edge materials. And whether or not you're in industry or you're in art, there are going to be so many different ways to harness this, and even if you're not in those industries, but you just want to explore maybe a glass making workshop, or in San Francisco, all these ceramic workshops have been popping up in every single neighborhood where, like, people are Working into the night crafting, like Potter, handmade pottery, and different types of ceramics and vases and art and tableware, I do like and pottery and ceramics is literally forging, right? That's that's fire and earth. And so whether it's fire and metal or fire and earth, there's going to be such a big expansion in this. I do do, I do see this a lot. Yes, tool and appliance libraries for all like the makers, absolutely we will be seeing, and maybe I could have put that in here. Also is about more making and fixing is also going to be is part of this versus just buying something new and throwing up the old one. So that is coming too. So I'm curious, before we move on, how are you already inspired to bring some of these trends into your work and your services and or even, like, you know, products and services that you already have that you might want to reposition differently. Yeah, you shall. It's such a strong culture in Mexico. Here in Mexico, people can bring many broken appliances back to life. I mean, you know, thinking about like Max. CO and Cuba and places where labor is less expensive, like in the United States, like things labor is so expensive that it's cheaper to throw something away and buy something new. But people are really seeing the fallacy of that, so hopefully that'll catch on here. Serena is going to lead with storytelling values and lived experience, absolutely. Denise is going to position your practice as a therapist somehow differently. Yes, I've been excited to, you know, working with you, Denise on that, just in terms of, like, how you're really here to support families. Tammy says wellness for sure. Martha says, I'm curious about my strong aversion to using AI, yeah. Susanna is going to make a membership community now, you know, I wish I just had your chart in front of me, Martha, you know, some people are early adopters and some people are late adopters. You know, some people, after all the year, all these years, still never signed up for Instagram or Facebook. And it could just be the total personal preference in terms of of using AI or not. But again, you know, just like how we were talking about, like being in community about just taking, like, these baby steps, you know, testing up water, seeing, you know, asking AI to maybe do a simple thing. Like Jeff and I use AI a lot in terms of, like, I'll create a podcast, and I'll upload the transcript and ask AI to write the description and write a blog post for me, and like, write some ads for me, and then we take it, we edit it, and we clean it up. But that saved us, like, two hours of work. And very, very, very grateful for that. Susanna says, I'll make my membership community. Allison says, storytelling values and lived experience in connection with various generations, learning, growing, mentoring, so much wisdom there. So you're so welcome, Serena, so coming back to the theme that we opened up with compassionate courage, reimagining a new path this year isn't just about keeping up with change, it's about leading the way. The cosmos is on your side, and these trends will help you work with the energies, not against them. So how can we flow with the current? I want you to lead with impact in this transitional year of 2025 focus on collaboration, human connection, authenticity, care and innovation. It is a big, big year. Denise says I've been wanting to write books I was always hopeless, which I thought I was hopeless that, but I can see the energies are encouraging this. Now Absolutely I love that you're feeling that. Call Denise Vanessa says, Thank you. You are amazing. Thank you, Vanessa, you are amazing. Now, before we end, if in the new year you happen to want to work with me, I have a couple of different ways to work with me. I'm going to be taking my writing sabbatical because my book manuscript is due in March, and I have a dirty, dirty rough draft right now that I need to fine tune and get that through. So I'm going to be taking some writing time at the beginning of the year, but in the end of January, and January 23 we'll be doing vision star lab. It is a way of looking at your own natal chart. So you can star chart, chart your success for mastery that Saturn, breakthrough, Uranus and expansion Jupiter in 2025 so we'll be looking at where those three outer planets will be transiting your chart and reflecting on what you might want to do with that energy. So it's not it's not your typical planning. This is instead visioning, creating the vision that you'd like. And my membership, Star powered circle is ready to start its third year. But instead of starting it with the calendar the Gregorian New Year, I'm going to change it and start it with the astrological new year. And so we're going to be opening doors to new members in Aries season. If you want to get onto that wait list and join all of these global astrology loving change makers, this might be that community and circle for you, so you can head on over to star power.com, forward slash circle and get on that wait list. So you'll be you'll be updated when we start opening doors and promoting for circle 3.0 so that is all I have for today. Um. I would just thank you so much for staying with me this long. I know that it's already at the 90 minute mark, but I want to stay on a little bit also and chat if you have any questions or comments or or feedback. So let me stop sharing. So thank you again, everybody for being here. All right, let's chat, and if you have a question again and you don't want this rebroadcast in the on YouTube or the podcast, just let us know, and we'll cut that out. You're welcome. Denise Cassandra, you're welcome. Gretchen, yes, welcome and Martha, yay. Arman, dd, thank you. All right, well, oh yes, you like my my Saturn and my Santa wearing on a unicorn. I just want to say that was a lot, and that was really appreciated, because that was a lot of information. And I'm like, Yes, and wow, I'm gonna have to listen to this several times.

You'll get the access to the slides so that you can kind of review through. But yeah, it was a lot. Do you think, um, I guess I could have just focused on the six trends. But like, you know me great. I wasn't saying it was too much. I was just like, I feel like I have some really good direction, beautiful. Thank you. Rhonda, Athena says, What is your self care regulation toolkit for this year? Like Me personally, Athena. Yes, okay, well, Athena's in, in my community, in circle, and I have been very transparent about, kind of my mental health journey over the last year. And so I've been feeling super overwhelmed and kind of battling a little bit with some depression. But I think my depression is purely from just being overwhelmed and doing so much. So my personal self care regulation toolkit is I found a therapist that I'm going to be working with over 12 weeks. I think it's called, like a CBT therapy, and I'm going to start there, and then just really practice more time off and just play. I've been prioritizing work over play for too many years, and it's, it's, it's been such a detriment. So that is for me, what are you going to do? Athena, Susanna says, so great. I will do a forecast in German next week. Yes, please do Susanna business and inner work. Yes. Miana says, I appreciate this, and I'm excited for the new year. I love astrology, transits and trends. Susanna suggest says, I suggest breath work on the run with so much Uranian energy for the nervous system. Yeah, I've been practicing a little bit of my own breath work, from what I've learned from clients. But I think diving into there in circle, there's a bunch of people that do some breath work, and maybe that is a really good idea with the Uranus in Gemini, and then how breath adds, you know, increases fire. So I love that idea. Thank you. Alison says CBT and DBT is amazing. I'm really excited. Gretchen says Mars and Leo is here to support you. Leslie and Michelle says, you have your own space in the new place too. Yes, that will help me too for absolutely, I have, like, an entire room that's like my own office. Now that was a little bit of a contention with my husband, because he's like, Well, why do you get to have your own space? And I don't get to have my own space. It's like, well, I can write this whole space off with my business, and you're an employee. So here we go. We will find you your own space. Husband, you don't have as much I need to cleanse my aura. But anybody have any questions about the presentation or what's coming up in the stars? Yeah. Gretchen, you can tell that to my husband.

I can have a question, yeah, of course. Marta, yeah, I would love some some insights about because we're you've mentioned about the North Node access is going from Aries into Pisces, so the north node will be in Pisces, and apparently my south node is in Pisces, so I will have, like, you know, this weird, it's called a nodal North oppositions. Or, sorry, could you just repeat that with skin?

Yeah, it's called a nodal in inversion. A nodal inverse. Yes, inverse, okay, all right, that's a clever thing. You can you can look it up. It kind of, it almost feels almost like to at least when I was going through it, you go through it around like, 4647 is that? How old around? How 4545

Yeah, 46 next day. So get spot on, yeah.

And so when you go through that, it almost feels like there's a little bit of confusion. You're like, Am I doing this right thing? Is that what I really want to be doing? And so it's almost like two steps back, one step forward. You get clarity through the confusion.

Yeah, that would be confusing, because they are also conjunction with my IC and MC, right? Really couldn't be better, absolutely. So it's like, if we always think about the IC to MC, Root to rise, maybe you have to rise to root. Maybe you're like a hydroponic plant where you're growing, but then now your roots are coming down.

So I can imagine that myself doing it. So yeah, yeah, it is. It's a funny little transit, for sure, adds to all your other midlife transits.

Thank you. Yeah, we've got a party over

Thank you for today I love and I don't think you know the last part was the most important one, because it seems better when we have this on front information where we are going from towards so, so no, don't be it's great. But I think we all can come away for for your book, so that will be awesome.

Thank you, if I may add, it's been super interesting writing the book, and why I've been like, so entrenched in 2026 is that I've been, you know, looking at the astrology of 2026 to inform me of like, what does this book need to like? Who does this book need to speak to in 2026 so kind of like writing to people's future selves versus like the self that they are now. And it has been kind of like, like messing with my mind a little bit, but I can see, you know, everybody's going to be Pluto and Aquarius. We're going to have, you know, all these transits that are going back and forth between Aries and Aries and Pisces and Gemini and Taurus, like all of the all of the groundwork, the foreshadowing of this year is really like leading us up to fully arrive in 2026 and so when we think about just like chapters in history, like 2020 is going to be a Chapter, 2026 is going to be the next chapter, I have a question, yes, about, really the eighth house, because my eighth house is Aries, and so these will be transiting that seventh house, eighth house, and part of The eighth house, you know, I understand the whole taxes and debts and all of that part of it, but I am kind of more interested in the like, I know, like the intimacy, kind of intimacy lives in the eighth house, or like things that are deep down. Because if anything about Scorpio, they tend to have a lot going under the surface. And, you know, it'll explode out if it needs to explode out. And so I don't have Scorpio, I obviously have

Aries, but those same trance, those same themes, are there. So I was just curious about, like, these transits in the eighth house, because I don't know, I find like, it's mysterious, much like the 12th, you know, kind of those secrets, yeah, you know, the eighth house is, like, it's like the 12th house, like, very, very misunderstood a lot of times the eighth house is still a money house. And I talk about the money house not in terms of, like, actual money, but in terms about values, okay, okay. And so to me, when you have a lot of eighth house, when any of us have a lot of eighth house transits or eighth house pileups, we're really learn. We're investigating another layer deeper of like, do I really value that? Do I really value that person? Do I trust what I value here? And so the trust part comes in, because as you go deeper and deeper and deeper, you know, like, thinking like, like, if you're like a scuba diver or something like that, you have to have trust in your machinery, that you're going to still be able to breathe the deeper and deeper that you go, that you're still going to be safe. And so as I think about Saturn and Neptune going through your eighth house, you're going to really learn to trust yourself. You're going to really learn to trust all those deep parts that. Maybe you haven't been wanting to dredge up and look at and so it's going to be a powerful time for you, because you're going to be diving deep in introspection and learning to trust all those parts of yourself. Interesting. Okay, that makes sense. Yeah, I know this will be I have a pile up of planets and Aquarius too. I think right now Pluto's on top of my Saturn, and then it'll be mercury, and then it'll be sun, and then it'll be my moon. And so yeah, I feel those transits of like learning how to trust myself coming in. So yeah, and trust your voice, trusting my voice. Mm, hmm. No, probably that's one thing that next year is going to be a big thing. Of for me is like being more public, because this past year, I've really hermitted myself in a lot of ways, classic, I think Virgo rising, the Hermit card is the Tarot card for Virgo. And so a lot of hermit in same fall about Aquarian energy. So that makes a lot of sense with trusting, learning to trust myself and trust my voice. Did you have a two, four transit in HD? Oh no, but I definitely agree with Michelle about your own space, because you can be free of pressure from other people, for sure. And I wanted to echo Marta about I agree. I think having both parts of this was really helpful. The first part really did I think set up how to think about the second part. So, you know, I wasn't overwhelmed by all of the information. I know that sometimes can be like a concern, Is this too much or not enough? But I thought it was great. So I just want to let you know. Well, thank you, jamira, thank you. Lisa in the chat says, Thank you so much, super amazing, affirming and super helpful. So have a good night, beautiful. All right. Any more questions? All right. Well, my friends, you're so welcome.
